Subject: RE: Where did we leave departure time on Sunday?

Menendez -- on Saturday they are in speaking sessions from 9:00am until 4:00pm at the Goldman Sachs Tower in Jersey City, NJ. There is a lunch session at 1:00pm-2:30pm at the Liberty House Restaurant in Jersey City. That night, the banquet dinner is at 8:00pm at Ellis Island. Frankly, doing a daytime role could be easier as they will ask you to sit for a good portion of the dinner, citing "royal protocol" with the Crown Prince in attendance.

Will do more work on TOR. Understand S will not attend, aiming for senior officials level (although Hague and HBJ will be there).

-- [redacted] agreed that we need to focus urgently on structure for humanit aid/corridors to Benghazi, etc. As discussed in London, UN should play overall coordinating role, with NATO (esp Turkey), EU and Qatar/UAE all contributing. Will follow up with Susan, and UK will also work in NY.

-- Nothing much new from Kusa. Brits handling carefully, v mindful of importance of making him magnet for others. [redacted] said Saif's guy was "unimpressive" in London, still angling for role for Saif and "symbolic" place for dad.

The Secretary's Call Sheet for
Nigerian President Goodluck Jonathan
March 21, 2011

Purpose of Call: To urge President Jonathan to make strong public statements in support of the international community's intervention in Libya on the national, regional, and Africa Union level and to encourage his continued leadership on Cote d'Ivoire.

B5

Background: Election season in Nigeria is in full swing, with parliamentary, presidential, and gubernatorial elections scheduled for April 2, 9, and 16, respectively. President Jonathan has been on the campaign trail most of this month. Nigerian officials still resent Qaddafi's suggestion last year that Nigeria be divided in multiple countries in response to its ethno-religious violence, and have been supportive of our efforts to date.

Madam Secretary,

We have two primary issues of sensitivity with Morocco when it comes to the Western Sahara. One is human rights. On that issue, we have some promising developments. Moroccan FM Taieb Fassi-Fihri has brought a four-part proposal

The second area of sensitivity with Morocco, as you note, is the autonomy plan. Here's the language we have for you to say publicly on the Western Sahara today in the media availability with TFF:

As for the background, I understand that Secretary Albright, in a trip to Morocco near the end of the Clinton Administration, first discussed an autonomy plan. By 2007, the United States publicly endorsed autonomy under Moroccan sovereignty as the only viable solution to the Western Sahara Conflict. We went even further in the 2008 EO: "For our part, we do agree with [predecessor to Chris Ross] Mr. Van Walsum's assessment that an independent Sahrawi state is not a realistic option for resolving the conflict and that genuine autonomy under Moroccan sovereignty is the only feasible solution." Your comments in Marrakech was not as detailed as the 2008 EO: "[The Moroccan autonomy plan] is a plan. . . that was started under the Clinton Administration. It was reaffirmed under the Bush Administration and remains the policy of the United States under the Obama Administration."

I hope that this is helpful. I have attached the 2008, 2009, and 2010 EOs, so you can see the evolution in language on this issue from the Bush to the Obama Administrations, should you want more detail.

Hey Hillary- heard through the grapevine you're going to be sitting down with a good friend of mine this week for an interview- Abigail Disney. She has been an incredible resource and coach over the last few months as I push forward to finish my film. Her project on women, war, and peace is also incredibly powerful. We now live in a time when it is more dangerous being a civilian in war than it is being a soldier- all the more reason her project is so important. Hope you had a good fourth of July and got my fingers crossed we get to catch up soon. You're deeply missed. xxooz _____

Meanwhile we have forgotten how to make things work in DC. Your statement on the mess here was also great. So welcome home and look forward to catching. Our friendship is unique.

Dear Hillary

Another important trip. I know you have a ton on your mind and a big agenda in Turkey. Nevertheless, if you have a chance to mention PNB in your meetings or to the press it would be a great boost. You may remember at the dinner you hosted, the Turkish local chapter was really on its way. The head of it is Rifat Hisarciklioglu, President of TOBB (business trade assocY

Here's to you good buddy

See below. Hopefully you can open the photos (the first boxes of Pak mangos have arrived in Chicago). And notice the small request Mary Beth makes on behalf of her two partners in crime...

She is off the the NSC, to take half of Lipton's job. So she's still going to be an asset.

Subject: mangos

Jake-

Thanks for coming out on Friday. It was great to see you.

I mentioned mangos to you. Our first shipment arrive in the US last Thursday. This is one of the initiatives that the Secretary announced during her October 2009 visit. It's been a major struggle getting the sanitary and phyto-sanitary regimes in place but it's done! This season the price is high and supply is targeted to stores in New York and Texas, but it will go down significantly next year and beyond.

I've attached three photos for you. The design on the boxes is a bit cheesy but I thought RCH would have gotten a kick out of it. =) The Pakistanis renamed a plane in the PIA fleet for the inaugural trip which was unexpected but a nice touch.

Anyway, I can't tell you how much time I've spent on this and RCH was quit immersed in the specific details of the process as well. He brought it up with Zardari and others to press for action when things got jammed in the bureaucracy. He liked to throw them off by getting into crazy minutia as well as the big strategic issues to show just how much we were involved in.

My two partners in crime who lived and breathed this effort in the field were coerced early on by RCH and all they asked for in return was an autographed picture of Secretary Clinton. Both are huge fans and RCH of course said "no problem, just get this done!" I'm hoping that you might help me fulfill his outstanding promise to them?

The two individuals are: Marc Gilkey who is our regional APHIS rep based out of Embassy New Delhi. He's been SUPERB at keeping USDA focused and a real miracle worker at finding solutions to the internal USG technical regulatory issues. The other is Joe Carroll who just left post but has served as our Agricultural Attaché at Embassy Islamabad for the past 2 plus years. Joe is moving on to Australia next but spent over two years patiently educating the GOP on the details of the SPS issues.

I'm happy to help facilitate in any way and appreciate your help. It'd be nice to close this chapter with these folks getting some well deserved recognition.

Many thanks-

Mary Beth

Speaking of Sunday Shows, purely for your situational awareness when you're at the WH: Sec. Gates is saying he only wants to do two of the three shows (NBC & CBS, because 1) he does ABC too much 2) more importantly he's just coming off a trip and doesn't have the time or energy to do all three), and they are trying to convince him to do all three because ABC is throwing a fit - so you might get wind of that drama asks him directly to do all three (which would mean you're doing all three too).

Subject: Invitation for the Secretary

Dear Madame Secretary:

I hope you are well. I am very proud of your remarkable work. You may remember that during the Clinton Administration I was Under Secretary of State for Economic, Business, and Agricultural Affairs and I was the chief U.S. negotiator for the Kyoto Protocol. Todd Stern and Jonathan Pershing were key parts of my team.

I have been doing pro bono representation of a remarkable organization fronted by Jeff Horowitz, Avoided Deforestation Partners, which combines many of the country's major environmental groups with a number of large electric utility companies. We are dedicated to reducing the rate of global deforestation, which is a major contribution to greater gas emissions. Tropical forests are also crucial as habitats for a majority of the world's species, and poor people depend upon forests for their livelihood.

Our inspiration has been Wangari Maathai, with whom I worked daily. Her premature passing is a genuine tragedy. I know you share my admiration for her.

I am attaching a letter from me and Jeff Horowitz asking that you agree to do a short video for an event at the Durban COP, honoring Wangari and supporting forest preservation.

Thank you for your consideration.

Best wishes.

Cheryl

I know from current events that your life must be a whirlwind. I know that if there ever was someone who could tame the whirlwind, it would be you.

Just read the news report of the Secretary's stop in Malta next week. Thank you for arranging this. This letter and the accompanying clips I believe will help make the Secretary's visit a highly successful and well received one.

The Maltese are wonderful people and our relations with both the sitting government and the opposition could never be better. Indeed, it may be important for Mrs. Clinton to include both the PN and PL opposition in her stay. Lawrence Gonzi, the current PM, is an excellent leader, but has only a one vote margin in the parliament. His top advisor is a fella named, Edgar Curmi, and you might think to include him in as many meetings as possible, since the PM relies upon him strongly.

Joseph Muscat, the PL opposition leader is much younger, but bright and capable, and the recent beneficiary of a trip we arranged for him to NY and Washington (spring 2011), where he made a uniformly excellent impression, especially on the NSC folks, and that of course, is important given the sensitivities of north Africa. Muscat is a Phd who sees himself in the mold of our President, and does have many excellent progressive ideas. It is a stable, and highly participatory, democracy, but the parliamentary elections in 2013 could go either way depending on the surrounding conditions.

Neither party has brought women into the ranks of office holders nearly as much as they should. There are some very excellent women's organizations in the country that I made it a point to encourage at every turn, and they would be thrilled with even a few moments of the Secretary's time. Tracy Brown, the consular officer, is the person who I encouraged to take the lead with these groups, and she would readily help you arrange a photo op/drop by. There was recently a very successful breast cancer walk, organized by among others, Betty Lee, a nurse survivor, who is a leader in assisted care on the island - she is on staff at the Holy Family Home in Naxxar. Grace Attard and Dolores Sammut are leaders in the National Association of Maltese Women. The PM also has a top notch thinker in a commission designed to evaluate the gender implications of budgeting as well as to certify private businesses that do innovative gender recruitment and promotion. Tracy can get you the name of the research commission if you need it.

A genuine gem of a person is the President (George Abela); he is a former labor lawyer; he championed the cause of the refugees while in private practice and he never hesitated to help us help those seeking resettlement. He very bravely co-authored an essay with me speaking out against race discrimination, especially race discrimination that was sought to be excused by the inexcusable comment "oh, they are only refugees." This infuriated the soft-spoken president as much as it did me, and don't let the kindly demeanor fool you, he is both a fighter, and he is much beloved. If the Secretary wants to break the ice with him, she could compliment him on his dedicated roll year after year in the major fundraiser, called l'istrina.

Malta is making progress on trafficking, but it is largely because we convinced the police chief (Rizzo) to take a personal interest. His subordinates uniformly could not see past the "streetwalker," not realizing there is often a corrupt trafficker in the shadow. The Chief has now fully accepted the concern and with the help of the Catholic organization, Caritas, is treating these women as prima facie victims, so that the best sociology is being used to allow women to speak without intimidation. There is a good long way to go, but with the PM appointing Alan Caruana, a high ranking utility player for the PM, as chair of the task force on the issue, there is much progress. Tom Yeager who I brought to the embassy from his naval career has this topic very well in hand.

The one issue that was still fluid was SOFA. It is a real bugaboo; in part, because the Bush people tried to overreach. They frankly sent in a team thinking they could just push a small country around, and they created a political firestorm. On my watch, we did a number of things: first, we went public and asked what the neutrality provision in their constitution meant. We did this since we could never get a straight answer, and we could make no progress until we got both sides (and this is unfortunately a political football between the two major parties). While it took a little while to get through all the smoke, ultimately we discovered there was reasonable agreement between the parties on what neutrality means (i.e., no mutual defense alliance in advance; wariness about military engagement altogether – remember this nation's history being bombed 154 consecutive days by the Nazi's and having resources only for a small, but proud maritime force, the AFM, under the leadership now of Matthew Xuereb, but also under Brigadier Vasallo, who is just retired, but had been thought very highly of by Secretary Gates, who personally signed his award of the highest Pentagon honor given to a foreign national) – but willingness to both supply humanitarian assistance (as they did generously in our evacuation of the embassy Tripoli staff and the two hundred or so other foreign nationals we helped get out. Edgar, the PM's assistant, wanted had me start the ball rolling with the hospital ship months ago, and I assume it finally got a boost from McCain. Beyond that, I had pretty much secured Tonio Borg, the FM's concurrence, that as soon as the politics were right, Malta would sign up to the NATO Pfp SOFA with such reservations as might be needed to respect Maltese neutrality. Muscat and the labor people, George Vella, don't have much objection to that, but they still carry an old grudge against the PM and his party for re-activating membership in NATO Pfp without going back to Parliament (a previous PL majority having withdrawn Malta from NATO). Dr. Vella (he is an MD) probably has the better of the formalism on this, but again, its old news, and the point needs to be made clearly that Malta loses out year after year to the small defense and state funds available to them for Maritime training and the like because they have dragged out this SOFA discussion way out of proportion. If Muscat the PL leader is brought into meetings, he needs to hear this as well.

That said, we of course are somewhat the source of our own problem. The Navy Captains would like a SOFA, but with flexibility from their NATO commander, they will bring ships into port on a waiver basis and if we allowed that to happen, it would be in everybody's best interest, since it would generate economic activity and demonstrate the good citizens our service people generally are.

And

Economic activity from us – be it from port visits or ship repair – is a helpful conduit for greater or continued cooperation on Iranian sanctions. You will remember that IRISL had a large presence in Malta, and it took some real hard negotiation with Tonio Borg, the foreign minister to get Malta's full cooperation. Understandable, given the significance of the "free" port to them, but nevertheless with the help of my friend and teacher, Ambassador Bill Wood we made real progress, and ultimately Malta was helpful to us to bring Cyprus and Greece more closely into the effort. Malta also negotiated a ship boarding agreement which is in place; accepted training and equipment in their customs port (it is generous on our part, but it also slows trade), and helped us interdict a shipment which became a pivotal part of the last sanctions effort. Malta is no fan of sanctions, and rightly, they are skeptical and surmise all the wrong people escape their impact. Nevertheless, Malta respects our judgment on the risk, so long as we level with them, and do not overstate.

There is probably more, and I am willing to fill in gaps if it can be useful. The Maltese are justifiably proud of their ancient, Arabic-based language, so if the Secretary can it would be great if a portion of her remarks could be given by her in Maltese. I can help with that if you get me a paragraph, or alternatively, I can put you in touch with former Malta Ambassador to Egypt, George Doublesine, who would be delighted to do a translation for her, and who is also quite an expert on Egypt which could prove useful in the months ahead. Seeing the shortness of time, I have done a short statement at end of this letter.

I suspect the full diplomatic corps will come out, as they should. There are some very good friends of America in the group: most notably, Tomaso Caputo, the archbishop and papal nuncio; Anne Quinane, the high commissioner of Australia; Jean-Francois Delahaut of Belgium; Caroline Gudenhaus of Austria. The Egyptian ambassador, Abdel Mawgoud Elabashy, is a good friend, and Mrs. Clinton again could find his advice useful in the months ahead. He has two very talented daughters, Hannah who did her undergrad at Harvard and Farrida who just started at Grinnell. Of special note is Gabriel or Gabi Taweel of the Palestinian Authority; he is sharp, witty, a good friend of the U.S., anxious to get a genuine two state solution in place, and he is also the brother of Suha Arafat, the widow of Yasser, who is in residence in Malta.

The new building: is of course magnificent, and the construction delays were all US in origin; when I got there, the project had slipped because of the absence of a confirmed ambassador, because there was a nepotism problem with the project manager, who in turn had problems keeping engineers. I quite frankly made a nag of myself at OBO until they helped me put people in place that could finish the project to the quality and specification of high standard both because I conceive of Malta as an important regional north-south facilitator of important security and trade information, and because Malta allowed us to build – on 10 acres no less – in the heart of their national park which is very popular. We compensated in part by building well (the quality of the construction will be obvious) and several Maltese business men (Winston Zhara and James Satariano) helped me solve the so-called labor shortage (which really was just a product of the prior bad management). If there is a luncheon to include pro-American business types, they should be thought of.

At the embassy, Mrs. Clinton will remember that while the mechanicals won a LEEDS award designation for efficiency; we had expected, and to some degree, made known our plan to build a sun shade over the parking lot which would serve as a platform for solar cell technology which could pick up as much as 30 percent of the power need. I again nagged poor Deputy Secretary Kennedy to get the funding, which we got for the cells, but not the sun shade platform. I hope my Charge has kept up the encouragement of this funding, since if there is a place on earth that should not be dependent on carbon fuel, since it has none, and dependent on wind and solar – since it has this in abundance – it is Malta.

The largest part of our US team in the embassy is the navy/coast guard/ ncis contingent that has established a Maritime training program with the AFM to good success. The defense attaché there now is new [redacted]

1.4(D) [redacted] beloved and hardworking – and to good effect, patrolling the waters and the ports for B1 drugs, traffickers, and terror related figures.

B3 CIA PERS/ORG

Our biggest LES component is the local guard. They take great pride in working for the US embassy, and they deserve special praise; Joe Cordina and Ray (sorry forgot the last name) are the chief and deputy. There are a number of women guards who we hired again as a matter of gender outreach (Jo Micallef; Sandra; Evelyn; Dorianne; Mary Grace) – if there is a photo op with personnel, they deserve notice.

Well, Cheryl, I hope you find this helpful. As you can see, I took great pride in my work for President Obama and the Secretary, and even greater pride in how well our country had come to be regarded under President Obama's leadership. I never anticipated that I would not be there on the tarmac at Luqua when the Secretary arrived, but my happiness is great knowing that it is going to happen. I am a bit surprised, of course, that the President accepted my offer to resign when I was simply carrying forward what Josh Dubois in the White House called the "special presidential logic" of my assignment, but I fear there was just some very unfortunate miscommunication which gave the Secretary the sense that we were swimming in a direction that would have raised constitutional issues. I know that wasn't the case, and for the last weeks had anticipated returning to duty when the President and/or the Secretary had time to see that what we were doing -- as the intimate knowledge of this letter written by memory I think reveals -- was the full complement of work for Embassy Valletta, plus. The plus is still well worth undertaking, since the ideas that will need to be explored to promote inter-religious harmony in the Arab democracies still need great attention. We can rest assured that those who would provoke difficulty by fostering religious division will do so.

Forgive me for having a Mr. Smith goes to Valletta moment, but I believe deep down Mrs. Clinton and myself having emerged from the same Edgewater beach cradle, walked the same WPA sidewalks in Park Ridge, and had similar parental perspectives -- though my Dad was a Kennedy Democrat through and through, and I got the sense that Mr. Rodham was of a different mind -- we nevertheless with similar origin, and cultural formation, feel about the same love of country.

All this is likely surplusage to the fine advance work and briefing supplied by the highly capable Rick Mills and his excellent assistant, Rebecca.

Do let me know if I can help by returning to post or in any other way.

Very respectfully,
Doug

PS not knowing the Secretary's remarks, here is a short Maltese passage; wherever possible I have chosen words that with a little study can be pronounced easily and look somewhat like our own vocabulary:

The following which includes some endearing self-deprecating humor may fill the bill nicely:

Malta is a good friend of the United States because it is a good friend of peace. Malta knows the price of war and the price is always too high. Malta's influence as a highly stable democratic Republic, as a knowledgeable trading partner, and as a geographic link to better north-south and interfaith understanding (did my good friend Doug Kmiec help with this translation?). I am very pleased to see this excellently completed new embassy. It is a sign of our confidence in Malta and our gratitude for helping Ambassador Kmiec and Charge Mills come to the aid of our Tripoli staff caught in the crossfire in Libya and the role it has played in giving humanitarian relief.

Subject: Afghanistan Trip

I hope that when you are in Kabul you can do a small, (no matter how brief) meeting with some of the key women leaders, even if you do a larger NGO meeting. It is my strong sense from recent visits and emails that the women are feeling particularly apprehensive and isolated. They tell me all the time that because of you they have whatever standing they've been able to maintain. Rina Amiri is just back and told me that the women told her they "bought almost 3 years" because you've been their validator with their own govt -- from the London Conf to Kabul Conf to peace jirga and more. This is a very challenging time for them. No one knows better than you the ongoing upheavals, and they are worried they will be more marginalized in the transition and pushed back, even though their contributions have been significant. Rina also feels it important to meet with the women.

Also with the ramp up to Bonn, their participation in their own government's delegation remains a question. Almost 10 years ago at the first Bonn conf, there was significant women's representation in both the official delegation and civil society meeting. Karzai has committed 25 percent for the December Bonn meeting, but we have to hold him to it. Also, some of the women members in the House are planning a Codel to Bonn to support the Afghan women.

I'm told that the segment on Afghanistan in "Women, War and Peace" series is very strong and has very moving footage of your meeting with the Afghan women before the Kabul Conf -- which when premiered on the Hill was met with applause. I also met with Kay Granger this week and she asked that we let her know how she can better support the Afghan women.

I feel very strongly that even a brief meeting with the women (with the cameras capturing it) will have huge substantive and psychological value. Moreover, since we have all new US personnel in Kabul, the women don't have the same kind of access that they did in the past.

Lastly, re: Central Asia and the Silk Road vision, we have been working to incorporate the economic role women can and must play from ag to small business in the region. The Bishkek econ conf we did with SCA is already paying dividends. For example, we are developing cross border econ projects between Tajik and Afghan women. If there's a chance to do even a photo with some of the businesswomen in Tajikistan, it would validate their efforts.

I hope the celebrations in LA are terrific.

Thx

Hi Jake,

In several ways,

B5

The example of Kim Dae Jung in Korea is a good one: as a candidate for pres he bitterly opposed the IMF program. But then supported in the national interest -- which not only saved the economy from bankruptcy but lead to its dramatic revival. And he came across as a hero for putting the national interest above party interests and for the ultimate success of the policy. I was financial advisor to Korea at the time -- and the national unity this produced had a profound impact on markets and respect for korea around the world.

See you soon,

RELEASE IN PART B5,B6

From: Abedin, Huma <AbedinH@state.gov>
Sent: Wednesday, November 23, 2011 3:42 PM
To: H
Subject: Amr

Here is call sheet. We are connecting him soon.
The Secretary's Call Sheet for
Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohamed Kamel Amr

Purpose of Call: To urge the Egyptian government to take steps to restrain from the use of violence against demonstrators, to restore calm, and to create the conditions for free and fair parliamentary elections.

B5

Background:

Egypt: In a speech November 22 on national TV, Field Marshal Tantawi committed to hold parliamentary elections on time (beginning Monday, November 28), to hold presidential elections by June 2012, and appoint a "national salvation government" to replace Prime Minister Sharaaf's cabinet. The current cabinet will remain in place until the new government is appointed, and the SCAF will continue to operate as the executive until a president is elected. Protesters in Tahrir Square reacted immediately, chanting "Leave, leave!" Many commented on the speech's defensive tone. There were few indications the demonstrators intended to go home, indicating that at least for now, it was not enough to appease them.

The protests began on November 18, when thousands of demonstrators converged on Tahrir Square to protest the military's rule and the idea that the SCAF is trying to carve out special privileges for the military in Egypt's new constitution through a proposed supra-constitutional principles document. Most political groups participated, including both Islamists and liberal groups. The death toll has reached at least 38, and well over 1,000 have been injured. Elections are still scheduled as planned to begin on Monday, November 28. The recent protests raise significant security and logistical concerns. NDI and IRI are poised to field nearly 170 witnesses (a term the Egyptian government prefers to monitors or observers) over the three phases of the elections. We have engaged with the SCAF on the importance of their observation mission and understand that they will be formally accredited by Egyptian authorities.

B6

Syria: Amr stated November 15 that Egypt will not withdraw its ambassador to Syria. Egypt's embassy in Damascus was not attacked in the recent spate of aggression against diplomatic missions. Following the November 16 suspension of Syria's membership in the Arab League (AL), the SARG rejected the AL's proposal for an observer mission to Syria. Members of AL special committee on Syria are meeting on November 23 to discuss further actions, including sanctions, in preparation for a full Arab League Foreign Ministers meeting tomorrow, November 24.

Lona/Huma/Alice:

As we wrap up one of the more demanding trips the Secretary has been on in awhile, I'd like to propose the Secretary drop by the Line, the Executive Office, and the Correspondence and Records unit sometime between now and the end of the year. The whole swing could be finished in less than 15 minutes, with a few minutes in each of the three locations to say thanks for the support, and it would really help a lot with morale. The most critical is the line, most of whose employees have spent largely sleepless nights over the past week, but it would be nice to include the other two adjacent offices, since I don't think the Secretary has visited (but I defer to you with greater institutional memories).

Many thanks,

Steve

Hillary-

It was great to see you for a bit at Thanksgiving and hope we can find some time soon to catch up.

I am writing to ask if you'd be interested in speaking at the Truman National Security Project's annual conference from May 4th to the 6th?

It is an incredible organization and network of our nation's young foreign and domestic policy leaders (I am a little biased as a Truman fellow). This group is filled with smart, pragmatic, and idealistic young leaders from across the nation and I consider myself incredibly fortunate to be a part of it. I think you will really enjoy getting to spend a little time with some of them.

I've attached a letter with more info from Rachel Kleinfeld, the CEO and founder, who I think you've met a few times before.

Hope your trip is going well and know that you make all of us so proud.

Love and best, Zach

PRESS CONFERENCE

Summary: Maliki called for the KRG to turn in Hashimi to the judiciary, saying it should not "appear to be aiding a wanted figure escape." He stated Parliament is required to dismiss Salih al-Mutlaq, and cabinet ministers not attending cabinet meetings will be considered to have resigned. He said a majority government is the alternative "if the constitution is not taken as a reference," and he himself calls for a majority government because "a partnership government is not efficient." On the U.S., Maliki stated that 700 U.S. trainers will remain inside camps Iraq to train Iraqi forces. He said the U.S. Embassy staff has not exceeded 2,000 employees, and will be subject to visa requirements which will allow the GOI to know their number. In addition, Iraq itself has requested specialists in fields such agriculture and industry, which might be a reason for the increase the number of employees.

Detailed Highlights:

Security, Justice, and Political Issues

Security is not a subject for negotiation with anyone, internally or externally. Security and justice are independent and nobody has the right to speak about justice. There is no other option but to resort to the constitution, which is the key point in resolving any problems we have, which are many. All initiatives should be done according to the Constitution, even in our initiative on Syrian crisis. When we disagree on the constitution, there are other channels for resolving issues, such as Parliament, the Shura Council, Judiciary system, and others. I cannot say the constitution is complete [without problematic issues], but working with it is far better than working without it and we should not reject it. Justice and security should not be politicized, and we should separate between criminal and political cases, and all should be done in accordance with constitution. There are mechanisms set forth by the constitution to define the authorities vested in all government agencies and how to coordinate between them. A majority government is the alternative if the constitution is not taken as a reference. I for one call for a majority government in the next stage because a partnership government is not efficient. The judiciary is not perfect, but it is not politicized.

Hashimi

The confessions [regarding Hashimi] were aired after permission from the judiciary, the Iraqi judiciary allows this. Evidence is present at the judiciary, and it shows whether [the evidence and confessions] were taken under duress or not. Hashimi's case is not new, but it was delayed due to forming the government and reconciliation, and also the continuation of killings prompted us to take action. I received new information on crime just before heading on my recent trip abroad. Arab League intervention [in the Hashimi issue] is rejected. The KRG should not allow VP Hashimi to "escape," and should turn him in to the judiciary. Judicial orders apply to the entire country, including the Kurdistan region. We hope that the KRG will not appear as if to be aiding a wanted figure escape.

Iraqiyya Boycott

Cabinet ministers not attending cabinet meetings will be considered to have resigned. Only four ministers so far have boycotted cabinet meetings.

Mutlaq

I did not threaten to resign if Mutlaq was not voted out by Parliament, but Parliament is required to dismiss Salih al-Mutla

Anne-Marie Slaughter tweets call for intervention in Libya

from The Cable by Josh Rogin

Former State Department Policy Planning Chief Anne-Marie Slaughter used her brand new Twitter account on Thursday to call for international intervention on behalf of the Libyan people.

"The international community cannot stand by and watch the massacre of Libyan protesters. In Rwanda we watched. In Kosovo we acted," Slaughter tweeted, in one of her first ever entries. She confirmed to The Cable that the Twitter account is genuine.

Slaughter seems to be enjoying the freedom to express her opinions openly following her exit from government. Her message goes far beyond what President Barack Obama and Secretary of State Hillary Clinton have said about the Libyan crisis.

Both Clinton and Obama have said that all options are on the table, but no specific decisions have been made on how the international community might respond to the unfolding crisis in Libya. State Department spokesman P.J. Crowley said on Wednesday that sanctions and asset freezes are being discussed, but he didn't mention military intervention. By invoking Rwandan, Slaughter is comparing the situation in Libya to the 1994 bloodshed that saw 800,000 Rwandans murdered in about 100 days -- a clear case of genocide. Likewise in 1999, NATO bombed the Serbian capital of Belgrade following that government's genocidal actions in Kosovo, although a U.N. court in 2001 decided the situation did not technically constitute genocide.

Libya's deputy ambassador to the United Nations Ibrahim Dabbashi, who resigned this week in protest of the Libyan government's brutal crackdown, contended that Col. Muammar al-Qaddafi's massacre of civilians constitutes genocide, but no U.S. officials have made such a statement.

Slaughter's other messages on her first week on Twitter focused on how to use social networks to aid in the Arab uprising spreading throughout the region.

"I am a thinker and writer on foreign affairs who believes that foreign policy must be very different in the networked world," she wrote in her Twitter bio.

This email is UNCLASSIFIED.

Sounds good. I suspect you will have regular PCs on Tuesday at 5:15pm and 4:30pm on Wednesday but there were no topics set as of yesterday for either one. Other than those two potential PCs, you have the usual senior staff and A/S meetings but that is all, we kept them completely flexible and open for full days of office time.

I'd like to take either a flight from White Plains or the shuttle around 9-10am Tuesday to DC and back to WP around 6pm Wednesday.

Please tell the USSS I have personal meetings in the City starting at 10am Thursday morning

B6

Cheryl has an appt request I'd like to do either day.

Do you have any more info about the schedule in the office those two days?

CONFIDENTIAL

March 10, 2011

From: Sid
Re: Qaddafi's coming tricks and fears; Galil's strategy

Latest report:

As of March 10, 2011 individuals with access to officials of the government of Muammar Qaddafi stated in confidence that, several of his advisors, including Minister of Foreign Affairs Mousa Kousa, have discussed the idea of proposing a ceasefire to the National Libyan Council (NLC), followed by negotiations to form a new government led by a council of technocrats. Under this plan Qaddafi would stay in power as the head of state and national leader, and the day to day management of the country would be given over to the technocrats. According to these individuals Qaddafi does not believe the NLC or its leader Mustafa al Galil will accept this offer, but feels that it enhances his position as head of state in the eye of the world, making it less likely that NATO or some combination of foreign powers will come to the aid of the rebels.

Mousa Kousa is concerned that while the Western powers remain reluctant to commit to military action in Libya, they appear to be moving toward a series of political and economic gestures which may weaken the government. He was particularly concerned by the French government announcing it was recognizing the NLC as the legitimate government of Libya.

(Source Comment: According to knowledgeable individuals both Qaddafi and Mousa Kousa believe the announcement of the Russian government that it was suspending arms sales to the Qaddafi regime is symbolic in nature, and that the Libyan military will continue to obtain new equipment and replacement parts for its existing Russian material, even if comes via an indirect route. Qaddafi repeatedly states that he has survived numerous assassination attempts, an attack by the United States Air Force and tribal uprisings. He is now increasingly confident that he will survive this crisis.)

On March 10 the rebels continued to move back slowly from the town of Ras Lanuf under fire from the Libyan Air Force, and the 155 mm motorized guns of the Libyan Army. Galil has expressed concern to the Military Committee of the NLC regarding unsuccessful efforts to organize the opposition troops into an effective fighting force. Galil also said to other members of the NLC that he fears the United States and the other NATO countries are reluctant provide arms to the rebels, because they fear that these weapons will fall into the hands of al Qai'da and other radical Islamist groups.

Galil is convinced that one of his most important tasks is to convince these Western governments that the rebels are not supported by al Qai'da, as Qaddafi regularly claims. (Source Comment: To date Galil has had only limited success in this regard. He also stated that sources in Washington have informed him that certain officials of the United States Government want to adopt a policy urging the Government of Saudi Arabia to fund rebel efforts to purchase better weapons. However, as of this time the proposal has not received high level support.)

In fighting on March 10, forces loyal to Qaddafi advanced into the outskirts of Ras Lanuf. The Libyan Army forces moved two T-72 tanks toward the oil town and are firing on rebel positions throughout the day. Eyewitnesses reported that the rebels are pulling out of the city under the ongoing artillery bombardment. Similarly, military airstrikes targeted the oil town of Brega, located 56 mi/90 km east of Ras Lanuf.

The Qaddafi regime has begun a crackdown on international media in the country. According to knowledgeable individuals, journalists from the BBC were detained and tortured by regime officials earlier in the week. BBC staff members were arrested just outside of the embattled city of Zawiyah, located 30 mi/50 km west of Tripoli. The BBC journalists received permission from the government to operate in the country. At the same time, a reporter from Britain's press outlet The Guardian is missing in the country. The Guardian correspondent and a Brazilian newspaper journalist disappeared on the outskirts of the city of Zawiyah. Guardian officials are reportedly in touch with Libyan authorities in an attempt to ascertain whether the men have been detained. (Source Comment: During the evening of March 10 Libyan Army forces advanced into Zawiyah, as the rebels withdrew.)

On March 9 advisors to Saif al Islam Qaddafi stated in confidence that his father had dispatched senior officials to Lisbon, Brussels, Cairo, and Vienna, carrying the message that Qaddafi is willing to negotiate the surrender of rebel forces, insuring their safety if they lay down their arms. Qaddafi believes that Mustafa Galil and other former members of his government who joined the rebels must be prosecuted for treason, but he is prepared to pardon the bulk of the rebels. In the opinion of these sources Qaddafi is asking these governments of the European Union and Egypt to weigh in with the rebels and influence them to receive Qaddafi's representatives to discuss an end to the fighting.

In Egypt, Qaddafi's representative, Maj. Gen. Abdul-Rahman al-Zawi, received a cool reception from representatives of the Supreme Council of the Armed Forces (SCAF), who reminded al-Zawi of the incident in 1991 when ten members of the rebel Libyan National Army (LNA), under Colonel Khalifa Haftar, accepted Qaddafi's offer of amnesty if they returned to Libya from their base in the Congo. Upon their return these LNA fighters were arrested put on trial for treason and executed. (Source Comment: Al-Zawi asked to discuss these matters further after he had talked to Tripoli.)

According to these knowledgeable sources, forces loyal to Libyan leader Muammar Qaddafi closed in on rebel forces in locations in both the eastern and western parts of the country on 9 March 2011. In Zawiyah, located approximately 30 mi/50 km west of Tripoli, government forces surrounded rebels in the central city square.

Eyewitnesses have reported seeing snipers and tanks surrounding the fighters and stated that clashes are ongoing. Government forces also drew closer to the rebel-held port city of Ras Lanuf in the eastern portion of the country on March 9. Rebel and government forces clashed just outside of the city, approximately 12 mi/20 km from the city center. Government forces also launched rockets at strategic areas of Ras Lanuf during the overnight hours of 8-9 March. Several injuries have been reported over the last 24 hours.

Conditions in Tripoli have been calm in recent days. Tensions remain significantly elevated, but government orders and edicts have instilled an almost forced normality to day-to-day operations in the city. Traffic and transport is normal, and shops and businesses are open; however, business operations have become increasingly difficult due to stifled economic activity, rising prices and an increasing scarcity of goods. Internet services and telecommunications, including text and most mobile phone services, have been suspended in the country for nearly a week, creating further business operation problems for workers and companies in the capital. Government surveillance has increased, and security and pro-Qaddafi militia patrols are prominent throughout the city.

Dear all,

Here are some more notes on the members of the opposition National Council in Libya, based on our own impressions and speaking to Libyan contacts. Obviously these are the public faces and there is a huge network of well-connected Libyans working behind the scenes including many expats who've returned home.

Mostafa Abdeljalil – former minister of justice, HRW met with him in April and December 2009. Only Libyan official to publicly criticize the Internal Security agency for failing to respect the rule of law and release prisoners acquitted by courts. Former judge in Gabal Akhdar/Baida. Respected and seen as uncorrupt, a good transitional figure, though perceived as naïve politically. Our contacts say he understands that his position in this is temporary.

Fathi Terbil: HRW has known him for the past 3 years. He was the spokesperson of the Abu Salim families committee in Benghazi (his brother was killed in the Abu Salim massacre), a lawyer, very brave – would give interviews to the media and speak to us when all other Libyans were afraid. Was arrested in March 2009 for organizing protests of the families in Benghazi, has become very important symbolically – it was his arrest on February 15 that sparked off the demonstrations in Benghazi.

Abdelhafiz Ghoga – well known human rights lawyer in Benghazi, was the lawyer for the Abu Salim families who took their case to the North Benghazi court in 2007 and active in the Benghazi lawyer's syndicate push for recognition as independent syndicate. His choice as spokesperson highlights role of lawyers and judges in Benghazi and inspires confidence in the Council's desire to push for respect for the rule of law.

Fathi Baja: PhD and MA from the US. Professor of political science in Gar Yunis. Described as a liberal person – some say extremely liberal. Very well liked especially in Benghazi. Openly criticized the regime in article published in early 2009 for which he was summoned to a surreal meeting with Gaddafi which he then told us about.

Mahmud Jebril: We met him in April 2009 when he was running the National Economic Board at the time. Academic who returned to Libya during the period of hope for reform, became frustrated when working with the regime and argued that Seif needed to push his "reform" project forward faster.

Omar Hariri - Was one of the free officers who supported Qaddafi at the outset. Imprisoned for 18 years. Described as Tobruk man, trusted by our dissident contacts, "strong personality."

Ali Essawi - Economist. Former Minister for Economy. Got frustrated working with the regime, and was cast aside and sent as ambassador to India.

Ahmed zoubair - Imprisoned for at least 35 years, accused of being part of the Fezzan plot against Qaddafi early in his rule. Member of the Senussi family – relatives of deposed king. A poet, and since release seen as part of intellectual crowd, and mainstream opposition.

Dear Hillary

I was just waiting until you got home from the longest most amazing trip to thank you for what you did on PNB. It was perfect in Turkey and Indonesia.

What a boost for the whole initiative.

I also just heard that you accepted the invitation to NDI. Cannot thank you enough. We are so proud of what NDI is doing and having you there is the best news

Meanwhile we have forgotten how to make things work in DC. Your statement on the mess here was also great. So welcome home and look forward to catching. Our friendship is unique.

The Secretary's Call Sheet for
Nigerian President Goodluck Jonathan
March 21, 2011

Purpose of Call: To urge President Jonathan to make strong public statements in support of the international community's intervention in Libya on the national, regional, and Africa Union level and to encourage his continued leadership on Cote d'Ivoire.

B5

Background: Election season in Nigeria is in full swing, with parliamentary, presidential, and gubernatorial elections scheduled for April 2, 9, and 16, respectively. President Jonathan has been on the campaign trail most of this month. Nigerian officials still resent Qaddafi's suggestion last year that Nigeria be divided in multiple countries in response to its ethno-religious violence, and have been supportive of our efforts to date.

Lona/Huma/Alice:

As we wrap up one of the more demanding trips the Secretary has been on in awhile, I'd like to propose the Secretary drop by the Line, the Executive Office, and the Correspondence and Records unit sometime between now and the end of the year. The whole swing could be finished in less than 15 minutes, with a few minutes in each of the three locations to say thanks for the support, and it would really help a lot with morale. The most critical is the line, most of whose employees have spent largely sleepless nights over the past week, but it would be nice to include the other two adjacent offices, since I don't think the Secretary has visited (but I defer to you with greater institutional memories).

Many thanks,

> "This is important to the United States, it's important to the president and it's important to me, personally," Clinton told Arab leaders, according to one of the State Department official.

> Getting past stalemate

> The NATO-led air campaign quickly pushed Gaddafi's forces from Benghazi. But by May, the alliance's planes were patrolling front lines that barely moved.

> In Washington and in Europe, the word "stalemate" began to creep into opinion columns as lawmakers, skeptical of U.S. policy in Libya, began threatening to block funds for military operations there. Meanwhile, a cash crunch also loomed for the rebels, who were unable to sell oil and were legally blocked from tapping into Gaddafi's overseas bank accounts. By early July, they had run out of money for weapons, food and other critical supplies.

> Clinton, ignoring the advice of the State Department's lawyers, convinced Obama to grant full diplomatic recognition to the rebels, a move that allowed the Libyans access to billions of dollars from Gaddafi's frozen accounts. At a meeting in Istanbul on July 15, she pressed 30 other Western and Arab governments to make the same declaration.

> "She brought everyone over at once," said a Western diplomat who attended the Istanbul meeting.

> Tripoli fell five weeks later, after a relatively small U.S. expenditure of $1 billion, and with no regular U.S. troops on the ground. In the air campaign, U.S. jets flew less than a third of the missions but supplied critical support in air refueling, surveillance and logistics for sorties flown by more than a dozen other nations.

> Still, no hero's welcome

> The political benefits to Clinton and Obama remain far from clear. To many Libyans and others in the Muslim world, the lasting impression from the campaign is that of a reluctant America, slow to intervene and happy to let others take the lead. While Sarkozy and British Prime Minister David Cameron were given heroes' welcomes during victory laps through Libya last month, Clinton was confronted during her recent Tripoli visit with questions about why the United States had not done more.

I spoke with Marco Aurelio Garcia this morning about Alan Gross and Dilma's upcoming trip to Cuba. Following up on a conversation I had with him several days earlier, I underscored our interest in securing Gross' release. I walked him through our efforts up to this point, and noted that mixed messages from the Cubans in New York, and their disastrous handling of the Richardson visit, had raised real doubts about their willingness or ability to resolve this problem. I said we needed direct communication with Raul Castro, and I asked for Dilma to raise this issue with the Cuban president when they meet this coming week.

Marco Aurelio agreed to raise this request with Dilma. While he could not anticipate her response, he said that she is aware of the Gross case, understands its importance, and would like to find a successful resolution to it. (Earlier in the week he had told me that the GOB would remain seized with this issue and was prepared to be helpful to both sides.)

Marco Aurelio is currently in Porto Alegre, but is returning to Brasilia later today. He is then traveling on Sunday to Salvador da Bahia with Dilma to participate in a Holocaust Remembrance ceremony. Both will depart for Cuba directly from Salvador. I will speak with him before he leaves for Cuba.

MS:

Caroline Adler is working on getting the copies of More Magazine. I will follow up with her.

As Huma already replied, the Women in World DVD is in train; Monica and I will work on securing a copy of the Cameron luncheon speeches.

As for the archiving project, I am making steady progress on the binders, and am up to April 2010. At this rate, I will be compiling the binders in real time come late June/early July. Lona has been working on updating the schedules on her own. I have offered to help her in the past to no avail, but understand, per Huma, that we are now telling Lona that we have to expand this to a group project. I am confident that we can add this step to my routine for each binder and still stay on track to get caught up to real time by this summer.

- 5) I have a meeting in NY at 4 on April 27th at Marcum LLP where I went two weeks ago so will need to take the 2pm shuttle to NY on that Friday.
Also, pls tell Bill's office about it because he will go too.
- 6) I'd like to take the late shuttle (is it 9pm?) to NY next Wed 4/5 after Cheryl's dinner and back to DC on 4/8 on the 7pm shuttle.
- 7) If I go to Durban on S Africa trip, I'd like to stay at the Oyster Box Hotel

Sounds good on May 10-14th.

Defer to Huma on her outline for the early June trip.

I have a call with Terry today about the California trip but I am sure Huma has the best information. I am vetting the private plane that they have lined up so we can have that as an option although they were not sure about wheels up/down yet.

[REDACTED] I don't have the schedule for day so don't know what's possible.

I know I have to be back in DC for the dinner at State.

What do you know about the Time dinner and who's working on remarks--they should be funny and short. Is it black tie?

I will stay in NY May 10-13 and come back during day on 14th.

And I will be in NY May 25-28 and come back early the 29th and leave as planned for Tromso on the 30th, spend day of 31st there, then to Oslo.

What happens in what order on the 1st-8th? What do I do in Istanbul the 7th and 8th besides the Forum? Am I still doing Armenia, Georgia and Azer? I could go right to NY from Andrews for weekend and come back to DC morning of the 11th.

Any further thoughts about event I could do in California either evening of Thursday June 14 or morning of 15th? If not, pls book commercial flight for evening of 14. What is schedule? [REDACTED]

Some options:

- May 10th-15th. Stay in NYC after womens breakfast and come back in time for FAPE dinner on the 15th. Unless we attempt to move FAPE to the 17th which will give you 2 more days.
 - May 25-30th: Extend Memorial day weekend. Depart for norway on the 31st, do oslo on the 1st, do tromso on back end.
 - June is an impossible month
 - July we can keep July 18th-30th open for you. But that might be too far down the road?

On Eric Goosby memo, haven't seen. Will track down.

We have discussed the idea of taking business delegations to Cambodia, Korea and Vietnam. As you know, Jake wants to take them on many trips this year. Assume you endorse.

We don't have locked dates for Dip Center. Aiming for April and we will start identifying and showing you. Will be spread out over a couple of months.

B6

Already offered letter for [] birthday party. Will see if they want video too.

On [], she has begged us too but I don't think you can go if there's even a 1 percent chance that [] will be there. As you know, they are pushing hard for you to see him and have hosted him several times in DC. We should discuss.

For UAE, as you know, back in Jan we offered to do it this spring. They cannot do it before the summer and at this point, we have no natural trip to add it to. My thought was to do it if we ever ended up in Egypt so it's been on the backburner and last I left it with Yousef, it would be post-september. Ill work on it.

Also, closed loop with melanne after your bilat with jahjaga that you will do her womens conf in the fall. and told melanne to confirm the mongolia womens conf in conjunction with community of democracies.

Have you seen the memo from Eric Goosby about speaking opportunities at the AIDS Conference this summer? We should discuss.

Have you discussed internally the idea of taking business delegations to Cambodia, Korea and Vietnam as Kurt suggested?

Do we have dates for the Diplomacy Center events from Elizabeth Bagley?

Pls be sure I offer a video or a letter for [] birthday party.

On March 23 [] is having a birthday party for [] at the Willard Hotel and begged me to come by. I told her I had to go to Saudi Arabia but now I'm not. So I don't know what time it is but would be willing to stop by if you think it is important. What do you think?

I told Marcia Dyson I would see her so pls add her to list.

Do we have a date for the UAE women's event?

I spoke with the WHL and Chief of Staff for U/S for Policy. I did not share the name, only that we may want to make a recommendation.

The board currently has 23 members. Under its charter, they can have up to 28 members. There is no formal nomination process. Members can be appointed at any time

They aim to have a balance between D and R members, but there are no formal requirements for membership other than general background in defense and national security affairs

I attached the current list of members here.

Let me know if you need anything further on this.

Thx

Cheryl:

Here is the announcement from last fall when Panetta made the most recent changes to board membership. [REDACTED]

U.S. Defense Policy Board Gets New Members

Oct. 4, 2011

U.S. Defense Secretary Leon Panetta announced Oct. 4 that former Secretary of State Madeleine Albright and retired Gen. James Cartwright, a former vice chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, have joined the influential Defense Policy Board.

Also becoming members of the panel are Jamie Gorelick, a former deputy attorney general; Jane Harman, former U.S. congresswoman; and recently retired Adm. Gary Roughead, a former chief of naval operations.

Cartwright stepped down as JCS vice chairman in August and Roughead stepped down as CNO last month.

The Defense Policy Board provides the secretary, deputy secretary and undersecretary for policy with independent, informed advice and opinion on matters of defense policy.

Returning to the board are:

John Hamre, the panel's chairman and a former deputy defense secretary during the Clinton administration. He is now president of the Center for Strategic and International Studies.

Harold Brown, former defense secretary during the Carter administration.

J.D. Crouch, deputy national security adviser to President George W. Bush.

Richard Danzig, a former Navy secretary during the Clinton administration who is now chairman of the Center for a New American Security.

Rudy de Leon, a former deputy defense secretary during the Clinton administration. He is now senior vice president of national security and international policy at the Center for American Progress.

Chuck Hagel, former Republican senator from Nebraska who is now chairman of the Atlantic Council.

Retired Gen. Jack Keane, a former Army vice chief of staff who is now chairman of the Institute for the Study of War.

Henry Kissinger, former national security adviser and secretary of state.

Frank Miller, a special assistant to President George W. Bush and a senior director for defense policy and arms control on the National Security Council staff.

John Nagl, a former Army lieutenant colonel who is now president of the Center for a New American Security.

Sam Nunn, former Democratic senator from Georgia who is the chairman of CSIS.

Joseph Nye, a former chairman of the National Intelligence Council and assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs in the Clinton administration, who is now a Distinguished Service Professor at Harvard University.

William Perry, a former defense secretary during the Clinton administration who is now the Michael and Barbara Berberian Professor at Stanford University.

James Schlesinger, former defense secretary during the Nixon administration.

Brent Scowcroft, a retired Air Force lieutenant general who served as national security adviser to President George H.W. Bush.

Sarah Sewall, the first deputy assistant secretary for peacekeeping and humanitarian assistance during the Clinton administration who is now a lecturer at Harvard University's Kennedy School.

Retired Gen. Larry Welch, a former U.S. Air Force chief of staff.

Dear Huma,

Please keep this confidential. Could you give this to Hillary?

Thank you,

Grace Nelson

Dear Hillary,

I want to let you know I will be going to Rwanda in mid June for their National Day of Forgiveness and taking women leaders from other nation's. Jeannette Kagami and Aloisea Inyumba have been friends since our first trip there and they have invited us to the event. We are going to be there for 3 days early to focus on the friendship and on what is of true value. These women have attended the National Prayer Breakfast through the years. We are dreaming for a Revolution of Love. The division and hate is our biggest problem. If we can get our relationships right, we can solve our problems so these women want to be a voice in their nation. To encourage "treating others the way you want to be treated." I just got off the phone with our Ambassador Don Koran, discussing the trip with him. I just thought I would let you know that I am planning on going.

Much love from your friend and sister,

Grace

Dear Hillary,

Hope you are having at least a handful of stolen pleasures this summer! I want to run an idea past you and see if you like it. I am producing a Newsweek & The Daily Beast summit in November, which we have named The Hero Summit. It will be a powerful two-day gathering at the Institute of Peace on November 14-15, 2012 where we explore issues of war and peace, present the stories of men and women whose courageous service in the Armed Forces inspires us and discuss how we now maximize the potential of returning veterans and ensure their continued welfare. Jane Harman is helping us with her terrific knowledge of national security issues. And on the second night, Stephen Spielberg is giving us an exclusive screening of his new movie, LINCOLN, followed by a discussion with himself, Daniel Day Lewis, and Tony Kushner.

We're planning a keynote luncheon conversation on November 15th and would love it if you would consider joining with former Secretary Gates to appear together to discuss how "soft" and "hard" power can be used in concert to approach geopolitics and national security. Given that the Summit is a week after the election, all thoughts will be on how America begins anew and re-considers its role and responsibilities in the context of a new economy. I think a conversation between the two of you would be agenda-setting. The audience will be every bit as influential as Women in the World .

Is there any chance you might be available to participate in the Summit? (Clearly we would be flexible if lunch time didn't work.) If you are able, do you like the idea of joining with Secretary Gates? I have not asked him yet as I wanted to first sound you out. I would be so thrilled if you can do it!

Best,
Tina

Your final schedule has not been resolved, and no firm commitment has been made on your doing a separate women's event to announce the US commitment to women in the Pacific. The Aussies and NZ are supporting the travel of key women leaders to the Cook Islands to highlight the gender initiative. They have expressed concern that you might not join all of them for a gender announcement. Gillard is now staying over on Friday. It is true, she will have made a huge Aussie gender commitment earlier at the Forum, but the Aussies and Kiwis want to unveil the Cook Islands initiative for women of the Pacific with you to demonstrate the ongoing commitment (and new resources) by all of you that you first announced in PNG.

We have been working with all the governments, including with Amanda, but final decisions on your schedule are still a work in progress. Gender is one of the key themes of this Pacific Forum, and given your leadership on this issue, the other govts were eager to underscore their collective commitment with you to this when you are there on Friday.

See the email below from Jan Piercy who's been in the Pacific, most recently in New Zealand. Her message is confusing.

Amanda Ellis is the minister for development from NZ. I thought the reason we weren't doing a separate women's event at the PIF was because Gillard wanted to make her own big gender announcement.

As Melanne well knows, we put gender events on the map in the Pacific. I don't want to be seen as abandoning them now.

And we certainly have the time to do such an event.

So, what's the story?

Amazingly, I just ran into Amanda ellis in the ANZ airport lounge about to depart for the Cook Islands as I head back to the US. She said that the gender events are off your schedule. Pls, pls revisit this if at all possible. Your presence will make all the difference in underscoring significance of focus on gender in this convening. Hope this works out, and hope change inschedule does not reflect any problems, tho how cld u not be utterly exhausted at this point?

As you will remember, we discussed borrowing art from arts in embassies program with beth dozoretz last fall. We have been talking about options with them and there is a memo coming to you tomorrow with suggestions. Their staff came to measure so everything you see will fit in office (except for one piece and I asked claire to make a note of that one for you)
Arts in embassies will take care of transporting, installing and insuring. Of course, if you like none, they can suggest alternatives.
Or we just stick with art bank options.

Subject: Pursuant to our talk in Rabat...

Melanne,

It was a nice surprise running into you in Morocco and being able to spend a few minutes together. As I mentioned, the Moroccans, at the highest level, deeply appreciate Secretary Clinton's/Hillary's attention to Morocco these past four years. I can tell you that King Mohammed and his counselors are extremely excited about the coming launch of the Strategic Dialogue. The King views next week's event as a crowning achievement of the past thirteen years of his effort to create a strategic relationship with the US on bilateral, regional and multilateral matters.

As I mentioned last night, there are two concerns that I hope you can bring up to the Secretary. The first concerns her remarks at the event next week, and the second is in regards to the final communique that comes out following the event itself.

From the point of view of the officials at the highest levels in Morocco, this new Strategic Dialogue is the logical next step in a long history of our relations, especially over the last dozen years under the King's leadership, which have included a Free Trade Agreement, major non-NATO ally status, an MCC compact, and positive public statements that the Secretary/Hillary has made about the real progress that the King has made in Morocco on political, social and economic reforms.

It is "our" hope that Secretary Clinton/Hillary will draw particular attention to this fact, when she makes her public comments in at the SD next week, and says what this Dialogue represents and how it has come to pass as the culmination of the many things that Morocco has accomplished over the past 15 years and three US Administrations. This really is a story about the leadership of the King, including his recent interventions with the Secretary, and it is something I'm sure he would be pleased to hear. As I mentioned, there are many detractors and political adversaries in Morocco that are critical of the King and state that the US-Morocco relationship has waned, due to the fact that he has not yet met with President Obama. The SD obviously refutes this claim, and the Secretary's words in support of the King's achievements will go a long way in carefully balancing comments and correcting misinterpretations.

The Moroccans have also been working diligently on a draft final communique to be issued jointly at the end of the SD meeting, as well as a set of issues for the working groups, including women's empowerment. I am afraid the communique will get watered down without Hillary's staff's direct intervention to represent her views. I would graciously ask that you pass both messages on, and assure you that the views I express herein come from the highest levels in Morocco.

On a personal note, I would like to reiterate how proud I am to have been associated with Hillary and her team these past years. Her success makes us proud.

Talk with you soon and good luck next week with the SD,

Ed

I am writing now with a request. In June (mid/end) I am guest editing one issue of the New Statesman - a (serious) British weekly current affairs magazine. This is not the start of a journalistic career! But politics here is pretty stuck and this is one way of providing some ventilation.

I would love to have an article from you in the magazine (or an interview). It could be about the state of the world ("Why America is not in decline") or "How globalisation can be made progressive". Or it could be more personal - about your passion for women's empowerment as real foreign policy. Or just "10 things I have learnt as Secretary of State". (I assume something more political is ruled out.)

Really the choice is yours - but I hope it would be a chance to set out something you care about.

Many thanks. I hope this works out.
It would be a real boost.

Menendez -- on Saturday they are in speaking sessions from 9:00am until 4:00pm at the Goldman Sachs Tower in Jersey City, NJ. There is a lunch session at 1:00pm-2:30pm at the Liberty House Restaurant in Jersey City. That night, the banquet dinner is at 8:00pm at Ellis Island. Frankly, doing a daytime role could be easier as they will ask you to sit for a good portion of the dinner, citing "royal protocol" with the Crown Prince in attendance.

The timeline included in the brief might have been an earlier draft, not the final. Figuring that out.

But the comprehensive tick tock Jake had put together - which I believe he has since sent you - was done in large part for the Warrick piece. The great detail Joby had came entirely from Jake. Joby didn't do any independent research.

I'm sorry for the late email but we just received a call sheet for Malawi President Banda.

Are you open to taking this at 7:30am tomorrow? If so, we can reach out overnight. Otherwise, we will find other widows that work tomorrow for you.

This did not make it with the pouch but we can ask Marina to print this and her bio for you if a 7:30am call works for both you and President Banda.

The Secretary's Call Sheet for Malawi President Joyce Banda

(C) Purpose of Call: To offer condolences on the passing of President Mutharika and congratulate President Banda on her recent swearing in.

The Secretary's Call Sheet for
Former Lebanese Prime Minister Saad Hariri [sawd ha-reer-ee]

Sunday, October 21, 2012 at 9:30am

(SBU) Purpose of Call: To express condolences for the death of Hariri's close ally and confidant Brig. Gen. Wissam al-Hassan [wee-saam al-ha-sawn], [REDACTED]

(SBU) Death of Wissam Al-Hassan: I was truly shocked by the atrocity in Achrafiyeh [ash-raaf-eee-yah] on Friday afternoon. Please accept our condolences on the loss of Brig. Gen. Wissam al-Hassan, a man who I know meant a great deal to both your father and you. He was a true Lebanese patriot and served his country very effectively. I can only imagine the horrific memories that Friday's vile attack brought back for you and your family. The United States condemns this terrorist attack in the strongest terms and we stand with the Lebanese people at this critical juncture.

B5

(SBU) Background: ISF Brig. Gen. Wissam al-Hassan was a key confidant of both Saad Hariri and his father Rafik, who also perished in a car bomb in central Beirut. Al-Hassan was admired by many anti-Asad Lebanese, who were delighted by his August arrest of Asad-ally and former minister Michel Samaha [mee-shell sa-ma-ha] and exposure of a SARG-directed plot to assassinate March 14 figures. Al-Hassan was also a pivotal figure in the early investigation into the slaying of Rafik Hariri.

Subject: McGovern

We were deeply saddened to learn of the passing of our friend George McGovern. The world has lost a tireless advocate for human rights and dignity.

We first met George while campaigning for him in 1972. Our friendship endured for 40 years. As a war hero, distinguished professor, Congressman, Senator and Ambassador, George always worked to advance the common good and help others realize their potential. Of all his passions, he was most committed to feeding the hungry, at home and around the world. The programs he created helped feed millions of people, including food stamps in the 1960s and the international school feeding program in the 90's, both of which he co-sponsored with Senator Bob Dole.

In 2000, Bill had the honor of awarding him the Medal of Freedom. From his earliest days in Mitchell to his final days in Sioux Falls, he never stopped standing up and speaking out for the causes he believed in. We must continue to draw inspiration from his example and build the world he fought for. Our thoughts and prayers go out to his family and friends.

Hope your travels have been less brutal than they look. I know it has been a while since we spoke of this, but I still think it would be good for you to have an informal setting to talk to some influential new York city writers and opinionators. So, I would propose to host a smallish dinner when your calendar permits in the coming weeks with the following people who I know well enough to trust some level of discretion for an off the record dinner that would allow you to provide an account of some of the highs and even some lows of policy making on Libya , china, Iran, the Arab spring and the Israel Palestinian issue. They are: Eleanor Randolph and carol Giacomo from the New York times editorial board, Richard Cohen of Washington post, David Remnick and Rick Hertzberg from the New Yorker, Leon Wieseltier and Frank Foer from the New Republic, Tina Brown from Newsweek, my wife from CNN and ABC, and maybe one or two others like Tom Brokaw.

The point is not to create news stories, but to ensure when these people deliver their inevitable assessments of your term as Secretary they have an appreciation of some of the difficulties and complexities.

All best, Jamie

We just received one change to the call sheet regarding the date of the FBI visit. It should say 1/17, not 1/15.

From NEA:

In light of S call to Tunisian PM later today, wanted to ensure you were aware that the FBI trying to postpone Tripoli to 1/17 to accommodate the Libyan PM, who just scheduled a big visit to Qatar on 1/15 (the date of the originally planned visit).

This means FBI is trying to push Tunis back to 1/17 too-post is waiting to hear back from GOT.

Subject: New Social Media Resource

Dear Colleagues,

Faced with a rapidly evolving global communications landscape, we must continually evaluate our processes and procedures to be sure we are using all available tools to effectively reach people everywhere in ways that resonate with them. As we all know, it is no longer sufficient to merely rely on pushing out press releases in the hope that they will get picked up and read by our targeted audiences. Consumers today are increasingly demanding information immediately and sharing that information with their colleagues and communities around the world. As Secretary Clinton has said, the internet is the public square of the 21st century, and we all shape and are shaped by what happens there. If we are not participating in conversations when they happen and where they happen, we risk our actions being misunderstood or deliberately distorted. At best, we run the risk of being marginalized in an increasingly global discourse.

The events of recent months, in the Middle East and elsewhere, have again demonstrated the centrality of social media to today's most pressing challenges. We know that many Posts are already using a variety of social media tools and platforms, including Facebook and Twitter. In Washington, we are currently undertaking a broad-based review of the Department's use of social media. We want to ensure that we are deploying these new tools in ways that are both strategic and supportive of Posts' needs and that training is taken into consideration. Your input, thoughts and ideas will be a critical part of this process, and we will be reaching out to all of you in the coming weeks. We recognize that new social media initiatives can be resource-intensive, and it will require all of us to work together to identify new ways of incorporating them into our on-going operations to maximize their impact. This may require us to recalibrate and possibly discontinue some programs and initiatives as we expand our use of these tools, which are fast becoming an essential part of modern diplomacy.

In the meantime, we wanted to alert you to one new resource available to you now. Currently, press guidance and official statements are developed each day in Washington by your Regional Bureaus and the Bureau of Public Affairs. This information is provided to you for your use in interviews and media engagements. Going forward, Public Affairs will also provide that content to you in a format that is customized for Twitter or other micro-blog platforms. The information, containing policy statements and top-line messages, will be provided on a regular basis in English and the following foreign language Twitter handles:

- @USAbilAraby (Arabic)
- @USAdarFarsi (Farsi)
- @USAenEspanol (Spanish)
- @USAenFrancais (French)
- @USAHindiMein (Hindi)
- @USApORusski (Russian)

- @USA_Zhongwen (Chinese)

The English tweets are on the official English language State Department Twitter feed: @StateDept.

The following example from a recent Hindi feed illustrates how this will work:

हि ल र ी ल ट न ः ज न व ः म , प र ः भ ष ण य ह ः प ड़ <http://goo.gl/50Wfn>

As with regularly distributed press guidance, these twitter feeds are being designed as a resource for Posts, to be used at their discretion and under circumstances Posts deem appropriate, based on local conditions. Under Posts' direction, the feeds can be re-tweeted, allowing Posts to focus resources on the response and engagement piece of social media that is so vital and that can only be provided in the field. Rather than spending time combing through press briefings, official statements or interview transcripts to find the key messages, PA has pulled them out and packaged them into 140 characters or less and with the hashtags that will enable new followers to find you. The initial reaction has been overwhelmingly positive, demonstrating once again that engagement is what makes social media so powerful.

We look forward to working with you in navigating this new landscape for communication and depend on your feedback to highlight and share local insights and best practices.

Judith McHale

Under Secretary for Public Diplomacy

Jake – big news (for me, in any case). I’ve been appointed Executive Director of the Lowy Institute, the Brookings/CFR of Australia:
<http://www.theaustralian.com.au/news/breaking-news/lowy-institut e-boss-steps-down/story-fn3dxiwe -1226452573608>

I wanted to say to you that if there’s anything we can do to assist with the Secretary’s planned visit to Perth in November for AUSMIN, I hope you’ll think of us. In particular, if she wanted to give a speech and you were looking for a host or co-host, please get in contact.

Hope all is well with you.

Best wishes,

Fine for trip meeting.

Was thinking we could do scheduling earlier in day so any revisions could be incorporated before trip meeting. Is there an option for that?

Subject:  naturalization ceremony confirmed for tomorrow!

I hope that you had a wonderful Easter weekend. It was a bit last minute on Friday and then I received confirmation this afternoon, but I am now officially scheduled for my citizenship oath ceremony for tomorrow morning. I am so incredibly excited!

More importantly, I am so grateful to you for all your help to get me to this point in my life. And it all started some ten years ago when you first sponsored me. I am here because of you and there is no place in the world I'd rather be. Tomorrow afternoon, I will officially be able to say that I am proud to be an American.

Sorry to spam your email, but I will send you a picture and a quick update tomorrow after the ceremony! Thanks again for everything.

I know your schedule and wouldn't want you to go out of your way for this, but FYI this is where I will be for my oath ceremony tomorrow.
